Wyoming Residents with Healthy Aging Lifestyles Sought

CHEYENNE –With Older Americans Month set for May, the Wyoming Department of Health's Aging Division is looking for older Wyoming residents who exemplify a healthy aging lifestyle.

The Aging Division plans to select three older adults who will be featured in media promotions reflecting the 2006 Older Americans Month theme of "independence + dignity + choice = healthy aging."

To nominate someone who is 60 years of age and older as a healthy aging candidate, please submit the name, birth date, address and phone number along with a recent photo of the person engaged in their favorite activity or exercise program. A typed narrative of 300 words or less describing why the candidate reflects a healthy aging lifestyle should be included.

Entries should be submitted to the Wyoming Department of Health, Aging Division, 6101 Yellowstone Road, Suite 259B, Cheyenne, WY 82002 by April 14. Please mark it attention to: Wyoming Healthy Aging Nomination.

For more information about offering a nomination or Older Americans Month, please call the Aging Division at 307.777.7986 or 1-800-422-2766.
